FOREWORD

Sexual offences against children are undoubtedly a violation of child's rights as these are the reflections of perverted, perpetuated and hatred feelings of adults who indulge in such acts driven by brutal and unsolicited gratification of their sexual needs. These harmful acts result in manifold effects on the lives of the child victims. Since each child victim develops his/her own coping mechanisms, the effects of sexual offences vary from child to child. Considering the serious nature of consequences of child sexual abuse, however, till recently, no single legislation was handling this aspect, other than certain provisions of IPC. As a result, there was no law to adequately penalize the perpetrators of such crimes. In order to deal with sexual offences, against children, the Government has enacted a special law, i.e. The Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act (POCSO), 2012 which come into force from 14 November, 2012 along with Rules framed there under.

Some important features of this comprehensive gender-neutral Act, inter-alia, include child-friendly mechanisms for reporting, recording of evidence, investigation and speedy trial of offences through designated Special Courts. The Act defines six types of sexual offences for which provisions for penalty have been clearly defined. These six types comprise preventive sexual assault, aggravated penetrative sexual assault, sexual assault, aggravated sexual assault, sexual harassment and using child for pornographic purposes. The Act also calls for mandatory reporting of sexual offences. The Act further provides for 'incamera' trial and prohibits revelation of victim's identity.

The Act also calls for effective role of different stakeholders in its implementation. Each stakeholder has a unique and crucial role to play at different stages of dispensing justice to the victims. Viewing the essential and vital role each stakeholder has to play, the Ministry of Women and Child Development, Government of India requested the Institute to develop training manuals in order to sensitize these stakeholders on various aspects of child sexual abuse with specific reference to implementation of POCSO Act and Rules, 2012. In view of this, the Institute has developed training manuals in respect of eleven stakeholders. These stakeholders are: Police/ SJPU; Chairpersons/ Members of Child Welfare Committee (CWCs); Superintendents and Caregivers of Child Care Institutions; Medical/ Health Professionals; District Child Protection Units (DCPUs); Counsellors, Social Workers and Special Educators; Faculty of Educational Institutions; Judicial Officers; media Professionals; NGOs/ Youth Clubs/ Youth Groups, Elected Representatives of Local Self Government. This training manual deals with one of these stakeholders.

I would like to place on record the efforts and services put in by Shri Rajvir Singh, Assistant Director and in charge of this project and his team comprising Ms. Nageshwari Singh (Project Assistant) and Sh. Sunil Kumar (Data Entry Operator) in developing these training manuals under the overall guidance and supervision of Dr. K.C George, Joint Director (PC). My sincere thanks go to all of them.

A. Introduction to the Manual

I. Background

A child is at its best inside the safety net of the family system, family is the only place where the child gets best kind of care and protection. It is best for a children survival they are to be placed inside the safety net of the family system. Because if they fall out of this safety net they are going to be at higher risk of being the target of abuse, child labour, trafficking for sexual exploitation, neglect, and many more other problems. They are to be subjected to be Abuse is the deliberate act or series of actions which lead to harm. This includes, but is not limited to, verbal, physical, sexual, emotional and psychological abuse. Exploitation refers to the use of an individual for ones' own benefit, gratification or satisfaction. Harm refers to a negative impact on an individual's physical, emotional or behavioural health and well-being. Violence, abuse, neglect and exploitation often lead to an individual being harmed. Neglect manifests itself in not reacting, either deliberate or through carelessness, to an act or series of actions or events which lead to harm.to protect the children from being subject to these venerable situations

Child protection is the set of actions implemented when a child is identified as being at risk of being harmed, abused, neglected or exploited. It should be seen as an element of child safeguarding.

Due to a sudden collapse of support system which enables the child to develop and advance socially, psychologically, academically and professionally as a societal human being Children are institutionalized this lead to the sudden collapse of the safely net around the child which can be temporary or for a prolonged period depending on which the child's repatriation to support system and enabling environment should be based upon. Institution has to constantly look up for the enabling system through which the child can be repatriated to the society from where s/he comes. There are options that the child can go back to family which was dysfunctional for a time being for child's overall care and protection. Besides this when the environment which is dysfunctional for a child and can take a prolonged period to get back to normalcy, various non-institutional services such as adoption, foster care and sponsorship can be availed. While choosing these options a due diligence is to be kept towards child's preparedness in availing these options consciously and with a positive acceptance. For this the institution has to offer timely and periodically services of counselling, therapeutic (at psychological and psychiatric level) to the child on need basis and has to deal with various apprehensions and doubts of child in an utmost sensitive manner. The stakeholders in the institution should strive to be more vigilant and extremely receptive towards the doubts, fears, anxieties expressed by the child and to clear them with more positive attitude by making the child consciously realizing her/is capabilities and potential to achieve the best out of it. A non-judgmental attitude though a child centric perspective is inevitable to prepare a child for restoration and linking her/him to other noninstitutional services. It is said that institution is the last resort for the child and that child to get a family with a caring and protecting environment is her/is social, psychological and legal right which should be the supreme motto of the stakeholders giving services in the institution

Children have a core nature i.e. a set of automatically triggered perceptions, priorities, values, and meanings that needs to be considered by the society. At the same time, they are the most sensitive in nature and vulnerable to danger. All children have their own potential and talent, for which they need to be groomed well in order to make them self-reliant and empowered. The major responsibility of grooming the children is of the family and the society. However, the society needs to ensure the protection of the rights of the children in all aspects of the society.

Withdrawn from the social norms could lead to the development of an antisocial maladjusted individual which could be harmful for the sociality as well as the child itself. Regardless of knowing all these factors associated with the development and the growth of the child as a health personality now a day the statues of the child in India is at higher risk and growing toward the higher side.

An overview of the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences (POCSO) Act, 2012

The Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act (POCSO), 2012 strengthens the legal provisions for the protection of children from sexual abuse and exploitation. It provides protection to all children under the age of 18 years from the offences of sexual assault, sexual harassment and pornography. The Act provides for stringent punishments which have been graded as per the gravity of the offence. The Indian Penal Code (IPC) does not differentiate between adult and child victims whereas the POCSO Act specifically deals with sexual offences committed against children. The POCSO Act penalises sexual offences committed against both male and female child victims whereas the IPC does not take into account rape committed on a male child. The POCSO Act provides for the establishment of Special Courts for trial of offences and incorporates childfriendly procedures for reporting, recording of evidence, investigation and trial of offences. The Rules made under the POCSO Act provide for award of compensation, including interim compensation, to a child victim on the basis of criteria such as loss of education or employment opportunities, as well as consequences suffered as a result of the abuse such as disease, disability and pregnancy. The United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) defines child protection as the "strengthening of country environments, capacities and responses to prevent and protect children from violence, exploitation, abuse, neglect and the effects of conflict." As education systems have an important part to play in realizing child protection as children spend a significant amount of their childhood in the school environment, which is the next influential setting for the child after the family. Schools must mandatorily create and implement a Child Protection Policy and must efficiently include child protection into their processes, curriculum and staff recruitment. Bringing in the concept of child protection in education systems can lead to essential changes in the ways schools function, children's behaviour when attending school and the method in which teachers or school authorities interact with children. It is also an important part of the Delhi Commission for Protection of Child Rights (DCPCR) guidelines, which states that both parents of students and the teachers have to sign guidelines to ensure a safe environment when the child joins a school. Like rape, hitherto, including sexual offences against children, were dealt under IPC but a large number of offences against children were not adequately addressed by the existing laws. Such offences against children needed to be defined explicitly and countered through adequate penalties as effective deterrence. Therefore, to deal with such sexual offences against children, the Government brought in a special law "The Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012". The Act came into force with effect from 14th November, 2012 along with the Rules framed there under. The POCSO Act, 2012 provides for protection of children from offences of sexual assault, sexual harassment and pornography with due regard to safeguarding the interest and wellbeing of children.

The problems face by House Father and House Mother (small brief)

- Lack of availability of resource supply as (food, clothing and infrastructural)
- minimum knowledge of laws and legislations about child care and protection among the house father and house mother
- minimal or no awareness about the programme, schemes and policies made by the government for providing better care and protection to the children placed under child care institution
- the economical support being provided to the house father and house mother for being working in childcare institution is counted to be very less as per the job responsibilities imposed on them
- the house father and house mother doesn't have proper information or knowledge about how to handle the traumatize or trauma effected children as they are not aware that these child need special care and support from the care provider at the childcare institution which happed to be the house father /housemother or both
- they need to sensitized about the physical, emotional, mental, psychological need pf every child is different depending upon the reason as well as the circumstance cause of which the child happened to be in the child care institution

Need of Training Manual for Trainer/Faculty

- the person/individual providing training to the house father and house mother must need to get aware and trained because for making other understand the need of the training one must need to undertint that what are the basic requirement or focus area for providing the training to the functionaries/participation
- also manual acts as the blue print for the accomplishing goal or situation
- it help the instructor to plan its own activities and training to be based on the content provide in the manual

Objective of training manual

The main objectives of the training manual would be to:

- to orient the participants about the conceptual framework of child rights and protection and ground realities
- enable them to understand provisions under the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015 & Rules, 2016
- to enhance the knowledge about various laws, policies and programmes concerning children
- Sensitize them about their role and responsibilities under JJ. System & ICPS
- to orient the participants about the need of making CCIs safe for children, Empowerment of Children in CCIs
- To discuss about Identification of Mental Health needs of Children in CCI's.
- Orient them on Documentation and maintenance of records and registers.
- Enable them to find out Effective Strategies to provide better Care and Protection Services to children in need for Care and Protection & Children in conflict with Law in the State.

Need of the Manual:

Institutional care refers to the care, protection, rehabilitation and social reintegration of children in difficult and vulnerable circumstances. Child Care Institutions play a crucial role in effective care and protection of children. Hence, the functionaries of CCIs needs comprehensive training on child protection covering issues like situational analysis of children in India, child rights, child protection issues and concerns, International Conventions, legal provisions pertain to children etc. Additionally, Child Care Institutions also executes roles to oversee the implementation of the J.J Act, 2015 and the administrative domain of ICPS. An in-depth understanding of implementation framework of ICPS at State level and District level is necessary for the CCIs to implement the scheme (ICPS) effectively. Understanding the legislations related to children including the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, is imperative for providing a safety net to children.

Training Module and Programme Schedule

A tentative Training Module for carrying out a Training Programme for House father and House mother of CCI has been prepared. This five day Module is designed to help participants comprehend the Act and Model Rules better as well as understand the importance of counselling for varied categories of children. The five day programme covers key subject of relevance to the roles and responsibilities of participants underlying the necessity and relevance of legal framework and the schematic content of ICPS. The programme is a mix of theoretical constructs, context of child rights, legislations for child protection, understanding the need for counselling and its varied approaches for different categories of children, roles and responsibilities of a House Father and House Mother. Training techniques in the programme schedule include open house discussion, group work/role play/mock sessions etc.

The methodology (training innovation)

1. Brain Storming

- This method is generally made as a first step to generate interest and involvement of the trainees in the training activity.
- For this, the trainer asks the trainees to think of any ideas without evaluation or judgments.
- The quantity, not the quality, is what matters. Ideas can be discussed later for practical consideration.
- Sometimes 'unwanted' or seemingly ridiculous ideas lead to a more practical idea, which would otherwise not have been considered.

2. Interactive Talk

- This method is marked by encouraging the trainees to be quite active and analytical in their learning approach.
- They are also motivated to be inquisitive and anxious to know new things by asking questions and exploring alternatives.

3. Illustrative Talk

- This is a lecture method supplemented by the use of proper illustration using training materials, including audio-visual aids.
- Presentation of success stories and case studies is also one of the essential elements of this method.

4. Group Discussion

- Use of this method is based on the principle of the trainer taking on the role of a group promoter.
- This method is also an effective instrument of participatory learning, whereby the trainer acts as a group adviser, a group facilitator and a group torch bearer.

5. Panel Discussion

- The use of this method is marked by greater involvement of trainees in promoting participatory learning.
- In this situation the trainer's role is limited to be that of coordinator and moderator of the discussion, in which the trainees as panellists act as catalyst agents of the learning process.

6. Role Play Exercise

- This is one of the most effective training methods of participatory learning, in which the trainees are provided an opportunity to put into action the skills learnt through the training.
- For this, an artificial situation is created, whereby every individual trainee is assigned a role which he/she enacts to demonstrate the skills learnt through the process of training.

7. Training Method

- This method is used not only to promote participatory learning, but also to make the best use of the mix of talent and skill of the individual trainees.
- In the workshop method the trainees are arranged into a number of groups, keeping in view their interests and areas of learning.
- In accordance to the leadership qualities demonstrated by some of the trainees during interactions with them, each group gets a leader to coordinate the discussions and present the decisions arrived at during the exercise.
- Each group is assigned a theme of discussion relating to the topic being covered during the training session.

8. Field Visit

This method has a special significance for providing the trainees an opportunity to use their skill in field situations.

The outcome of manual

The major outcome for this manual would be:

- encouraging the understand and the knowledge level of the house father and the house mother about how to be more sensitized in providing better carte and support to the children placed in child care institutions
- this manual also help the facilitator to plan and execute the training programme in more effective and organized manner
- this manual will act a the blue print for planning and execution of the 5 day training programmed for the house father and house mother on providing better care and protection to the children placed in the child care institutions focused on the individualizes need of the children as separate

B. Role of the Facilitator Introduction

Facilitator's check list: "do's and don'ts for facilitator

ROLE OF FACILITATOR

Introduction:

A facilitator guides the participants in learning the skills presented in the course materials. They need to provide a safe, nurturing and open environment to discuss various concepts and relevant information in a manner sensitive to the needs, feelings and attitude of all the participants. The term facilitator is used instead of trainer since a facilitator does not provide ready answers or solutions but fosters a wider understanding of issues through the process of dialogue and discussion.

Guidelines for the facilitators:

In order to promote experiential learning through optimum participation and interaction, the facilitators should pay attention to the following aspects:

Dear Facilitators,

- This training manual is developed to facilitate and prepare you for conducting a 5-day Training Manual for care giver (house father and house mother) of CCIs
- You are expected to go through the entire module and prepare yourself to conduct the training efficiently.
- Each session per day is detailed out. Make sure that you have read the day's sessions before initiating the programme.
- You will also need to plan and manage the time at your disposal so that all sessions are given the required attention and importance.

Training Environment:

The facilitator should promote a friendly and cooperative environment. It is important to:

- Respond positively to questions from participants.
- Acknowledge the responses of all participants to encourage their continued attention and participation. It can be done with an encouraging comment such as "thank you" or a nod.
- If a participant has missed the point, it is important to ask for clarification or ask another participant for a response or suggestion.

Setting Ground Rules:

It is beneficial to set some ground rules based on consensus at the beginning of the training in order to ensure:

• Fairness and sensitivity within the training.

- Participants must respect each other's right to participate and share thoughts.
- Participants ask questions in a positive, open and accepting atmosphere.

Appropriateness of the Training:

- Although the contents and design of the training manual are standardized for convenience, the facilitator should adapt ideas and concepts to suit local needs.
- The medium of training and instructions should always be in the language best understood by the participants. Sometimes a mixed language approach may be followed if needed.

Prepare:

- Make sure that all your participants are aware about the training programme.
- There is proper arrangement of boarding and lodging for the participants.
- There is sufficient space for group activities.

Instructions:

- Base your discussion on the needs of the trainees and on the tasks they are expected to do.
- Concentrate on the essential aspects related to children and functioning of CCIs (Care Giver House Father and House Mother) Make sure that all the training formalities are taken care of.
- The "Directions for Facilitators" has been designed to guide them for an effective session.
- Key points to be kept in mind while conducting the session are as under:

Time Management: A pre-defined time has been allocated for each session. However, it is to be ensured that the training should be completed within the duration of Five days. The Facilitator should take care to assign adequate time for the activities listed during the session.

Guided Objectives: every session has a distinct objective, which needs to be reviewed before the beginning of each session.

Recapitulate: At the beginning of each day during the training, a recap of previous day session should be done with the participants. Any gaps can be thus fulfilled after the feedback of the previous day.

Training Approach: The Facilitator should focus on improvising the group activity as per the group of trainees. The experiences of the trainees should be utilized for enriching the session as well.

Feedback and Evaluation: At the end of the training, the Facilitator should take feedback from the trainees, along with their suggestions so that gaps can be addressed in consequent trainings.

Energizers and Jogs: This can be carried out for rapport building among the participants.

In order to ascertain the level of knowledge of functionaries of CCIs, a Pre Training Assessment Proforma would be administered at the beginning so that adequate inputs can be incorporated while conducting the training sessions.

After attending the five days training programme, Post Training Assessment Proforma would be administered to ascertain the knowledge gained by functionaries of CCIs.

Facilitator's Check List: Some "Do's and Don'ts" for the facilitators The Facilitators MUST...

- 1. Read the manual thoroughly before and work through the activities in each session to be familiar with the responses and explanations required.
- 2. Be well prepared on the goals and structure of the training program.
- 3. Make the sessions simple and easy to understand.
- 4. Demonstrate enthusiasm for the topics covered in the training and for the work that the participants are doing.
- 5. Be receptive to each participant's questions and needs.
- 6. Ensure each participant gets a chance to be heard.
- 7. Ensure everyone takes part in the discussion and encourage participants to go beyond oneword responses.
- 8. Practice mock sessions with colleagues before conducting the actual training.
- 9. Be available to the participants even after the sessions for answering questions/queries of the participants.
- 10. Think of and be prepared with a lot of energizers to be conducted in between sessions.

The facilitators must ensure that they:-

- 1. DON'T cut off discussion because it may make them uncomfortable.
- 2. DON'T let participants ridicule or otherwise not listen to one another.
- 3. DON'T skip any discussions and questions.
- 4. DON'T dominate the discussion or lead them from their own reference point and perspective.
- 5. DON'T be judgmental.
- 6. DON'T make the participants feel targeted.

| 7. | DON'T raise voice or express negative emotions verbally and/or non-verbally (through facial expressions or any other gesture) to control the flow of discussions. |

Technical Session I: Child Rights: An overview of UNCRC & Constitutional Obligations

Learning Objectives:

- To orient the participants about UNCRC and other international instruments and national laws
- To enable them to understand and contextualize UNCRC to the rights of children

Methodology:

- Presentation
- Discussion

Duration: 2 hour 45 minutes

Outcomes:

Participants will be able to learn about the basic concept on child rights and its evolution in the country. They would especially learn about various international instruments and national laws evolved to give a realistic shape to the concept of child rights.

Contents:

- What are child rights
- Importance of their realisation
- Ensuring their realization
- UNCRC and other International Conventions
- National Policy for Children
- Meaning of Child Protection
- Explaining the principles of child protection and premises of their formulation
- Skills required to ensure the effective implementation of these principles

Tips for the Facilitators/Resource Persons:

- This session is meant to make the participants understand and contextualize the concept of child protection, more specifically the child rights in the context of UNCRC and other international instruments and national laws.
- As this is a theoretical session try to seek as much participation as possible.
- Link the participants view points with the available literature.
- Read/review the ppt carefully before conducting the session.
- Hare updated data and knowledge on the topics.
- Keep track of the time as its is an extensive session with limited time.

| Explaining Child Rights   |
| According to United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child (UNCRC) Child Rights are the minimum entitlements and freedoms that should be afforded to every person below the age of 18 regardless of their race, national origin, colour, gender, language, religion, opinions, origin, wealth, birth status, disability, or other characteristics.   |
| There are four basic umbrella child rights, which can be further broken down into smaller aspects to ensure that they are duly realised:  |
| □ Right to Survival: A child's right to survival begins before a child is born. This right can be realised by fulfilling certain aspects of it so that this right might be realised in its true sense –  |
| <ul> <li>□ Right to be born</li> <li>□ Right to minimum standards of food, shelter and clothing</li> <li>□ Right to live with dignity:</li> <li>□ Right to health care</li> <li>□ Right to safe drinking water</li> <li>□ Right to nutritious food</li> <li>□ Right to a clean and safe environment, and information to help them stay healthy</li> </ul>   |
| □ Right to Protection: A child has the right to be protected from neglect, exploitation and abuse at home, and elsewhere. This right can be realised by fulfilling certain aspects of it so that this right might be realised in its true sense -  |
| <ul> <li>□ Right to be protected from all sorts of violence</li> <li>□ Right to be protected from neglect</li> <li>□ Right to be protected from physical and sexual abuse</li> <li>□ Right to be protected from dangerous drugs:</li> </ul>   |
| □ Right to Participation: A child has a right to participate in any decision making that involves him/her directly or indirectly. There are varying degrees of participation as per the age and maturity of the child. This right can be realised by fulfilling certain  | aspects of it so that this right might be realised in its true sense -

| Right to freedom of opinion  |
| Right to freedom of expression   |
| Right to freedom of association  |
| Right to information   |
| Right to participate in any decision making that involves him/her directly or indirectly   |
| Right to Development: Children have the right to all forms of development: emotional, mental and physical. Emotional development is fulfilled by proper care and love of a support system, mental development through education and learning and physical development through recreation, play and nutrition. This right can be realised by fulfilling certain aspects of it so that this right might be realised in its true sense - |
| Right to education   |
| Right to learn   |
| Right to relax and play  |
| Right to all forms of development – emotional, mental and physical   |

In addition to these rights, Universal Declaration of Human Rights in 1948 declared that Right to Education should be stressed upon along with the list of pre-existing rights. It was previously considered under the Right to Development but now has been enacted by Government of India as the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act on August 2009. As per the act, education is a fundamental right of every child who is between 6 and 14 years old. The act also states that until the completion of elementary education, no child shall be held back, expelled or required to pass a board examination. There is also a provision for special training of school drop-outs to bring them up at par with students of the same age.

Importance of their realisation

These rights ensure that all children have a life of freedom and their civil rights in a family environment are duly realized. These rights provide for basic measures to ensure that fundamental rights of a child are realized so that their civil, social, political, social, economic and cultural liberties are not compromised.

Looking at the broader aspect of realization of these rights means understanding the fact that they are designed to ensure holistic development of a child in true sense. Certain aspects of life like education, healthcare, food, medical care, shelter and leisure etc. might be necessary for a child to be fulfilled in a manner that helps the child to blossom into an emotionally and psychologically healthy adult.

If these rights are not realised then this might lead to the child developing disorders or hinder the child's development in a manner that his/her full potential is not realised.

Ensuring their realization

Realisation of these rights is the responsibility of State as well as the basic family structure so that the child realises his/her full potential. It was believed that for overall and harmonious development of a child, certain principles needs to be laid down which would ensure realisation of all child rights in a manner which facilitates achievement of holistic well-being of a child.

A number of conventions were drafted which stated the role of State in ensuring realisation of the rights of children. These conventions stated that safety and well-being of children is paramount which might be ensured by strengthening and preserving families, is the best way to promote the healthy development of children including stopping violence in the family.

These conventions made the State responsible for performing their role in developing services that are focused on the family as a whole; promoting the healthy development of children and youth, preparing youth emancipating from the foster care system for self-sufficiency and independent living.

The ratified States need to make sure that the services focus on prevention, protection, or other short or long-term interventions to meet the needs of the child and the best interests of the child is delivered in a manner that is respectful and builds on the strengths of the community and cultural groups.

UNCRC and other International Conventions

In 1924 League of the Nations adopted Geneva Declaration of the Rights of the Child wherein following points of consideration were noted:

- 1. Every child must be given the means required for its normal development, both materially and spiritually.
- 2. Every child that is hungry must be fed, every child that is sick must be nursed, every child that is backward must be helped, every delinquent child must be reclaimed, and the orphan and the waif must be sheltered and succoured.
- 3. The child must be the first to receive relief in times of distress.
- 4. The child who might be in a position to earn a livelihood, and must be protected against every form of exploitation.
- 5. Every child must be brought up in the consciousness that its talents must be devoted to the service of its fellow men.

In 1959 the United Nations General Assembly adopted its first Declaration of the Rights of the Children, meanwhile the United Nations Human Rights Commission group started to work on the draft of the Convention on the Rights of the Child (CRC). It took nearly 30 years to complete the work on the CRC and the Convention was adopted by the United Nations General Assembly.

The United Nations Convention on the 'Rights of the Child' is an international statement of the civil, political, economic, social and cultural rights of children. The UN General Assembly adopted the Convention and opened it for signature on 20 November 1989 (the 30th anniversary of the Declaration of the Rights of the Child).

It is essentially a 'promise to all children' to respect, protect and fulfil all of their human rights. It one of the most comprehensive of all the human rights treaties containing a complete list of civil and political and social, cultural and economic rights. On the 2nd September 1990 the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child was entered into force.

| Some | Some of the important aspects of UNCRC are:  |  |  |  |  |
|------|--|--|--|--|--|
|      | It applies equally to both girls and boys up to the age of 18, even if they are married or already have children of their own.   |  |  |  |  |
|      | The convention is guided by the principles of 'Best Interest of the Child' and 'Non- discrimination' and 'Respect for Views of the Child.'                             |  |  |  |  |
|      | It emphasises the importance of the family and the need to create an environment that is conducive to the healthy growth and development of children.                  |  |  |  |  |
|      | It obligates the state to respect and ensure that children get a fair and equitable deal in society.   |  |  |  |  |
|      | ne 17, 1999 the Worst Forms of Child Labour Convention was adopted, atlined five of the worst forms of labour as   |  |  |  |  |
|      | Slavery or similar practices, such as the sale or trade of children or the use of children in debt bondage or serfdom;   |  |  |  |  |
|      | Obligatory or forced work, including the compulsory recruitment of children for use in armed conflicts;  |  |  |  |  |
|      | The recruitment, use or offer of a child for involvement in prostitution, pornographic material or pornographic shows;   |  |  |  |  |
|      | The use, recruitment or offer of a child for illicit activities, notably in the production or trafficking of drugs, as defined in the specific international treaties; |  |  |  |  |
|      | Work which, by its very nature or the conditions in which it is undertaken, is likely to jeopardise the health, safety or morality of children.                        |  |  |  |  |

The convention came out as an immediate action required to stop all of these labour practices and a series of action plans to eliminate these were rolled out.

In May 2000, Optional protocols to the CRC are adopted by the UN, specifically n the Involvement of Children in Armed Conflicts, and On the Sale of Children, Child Prostitution and Child Pornography were adopted. This restricted the employment of children in any of the said areas of work as it might be deemed harmful for them.

National Policy for Children

National Policy for children, 1974 was reviewed and 2013 policy replaced it by expanding its focus on rights of a child. NPC constitutes a comprehensive set of measures to ensure the development of children that is divided into four sections:

- a) Survival, health and nutrition.
- b) Education and Development.
- c) Protection
- d) Participation

Features of the National Policy for Children, 2013

| Defines any individual below the age of 18 years as child, The best interest of the child should be a primary concern in all actions and decisions affecting children and family environment as the most conducive for all-round development of children. The policy would guide and inform all laws, policies, plans and programmes affecting children and all other actions of national, state and local Governments in relation to population below 18 years. |
|--|
| As per the policy, every child has a right to be safeguarded against hunger, deprivation and malnutrition and the State would commit to securing this right through access, provision and  |
| promotion of required services and supports for holistic nurturing.  The State shall also take all necessary measures to improve maternal health care, secure the  |
| right of the girl child and address discrimination of all forms in schools and foster equal opportunity.   |
| As per the policy, the state would take special protection measures to secure the rights and entitlements of children in difficult circumstances, in particular but not limited to, children   |
| affected by migration, displacement, communal or sectarian violence, civil unrest, disasters etc. Children of women in prostitution, children forced into prostitution and other abused and exploited children, those affected by HIV/AIDS, children with disabilities would also be   |
| eligible for state protection by the state.  |
| It focuses on the prevention of disabilities. Since it has been estimated that a large percentage of   |
| disabilities in India are preventable, so it is expected that with early interventions, further disabilities could be treated and managed, after which rehabilitation and social support measures need to be provided.   |
| It recognizes that, at times, children with disabilities are not given access to education and may   |
| be in need of additional care and protection. They are included in a larger group of vulnerable children who need to be tracked and have access to their right to education.   |
| It highlights the need for schools to be inclusive and for the availability of trained teachers and special educators, appropriate pedagogy and education material, barrier-free access for mobility,  |
| functional toilets and co-curricular activities towards the development of a child's fullest   |
| potential and autonomy, as well as dignity and self-worth.  It specifically states that the views of children with disabilities must be promoted and   |
| strengthened within the family, community, schools and institutions, different levels of   |
| governance, as well as in judicial and administrative proceedings concerning them.   |
| It is the first policy document in India that specifically highlights "disability" as a ground   |
| for discrimination that must be countered.   |
| The National Child policy also strives to create convergence and co-ordination across different sectors and levels of governance, partnerships with all stakeholders, setting up of a comprehensive knowledge base, provision of adequate resources; and sensitization and capacity development of all those who work for and with children.   |
| capacity development of an mose who work for and with children.  |

Meaning of Child Protection

Child Protection refers to drawing a safety net for children from any potential danger which maybe from known or unforeseen sources. This net might be a response to withstand the incidence of abuse, exploitation, neglect or violence against children in any form or place. It facilitates children accessing their rights of survival, development, participation and growth. This protection in broader terms may include protection them from being engaged in commercial sexual exploitation, trafficking, child labour and other traditional practices which might be harmful for them like genital mutation, foot binding, child marriage etc.

Child protection is tangible form of child rights which means that child protection provides for a structure to ensure that child rights are duly realised. The framework consists of various duty bearers such as the departments of the government, police, school, civil society, who all have roles to play to ensure that a child's rights are met, and in the case that a child's rights are violated that the violator be brought to justice and care be provided to the child. Child protection is not only treatment, but should also be preventive.

The protection of children is not just from danger when it has been drawn on them also from any situation which might result into a perceived risky condition like homelessness, dysfunctional family dynamics, addict parent(s), orphans etc.

So the broad concept of child protection can be understood in three different aspects which are:

| Prevention     |
|----------------|
| Intervention   |
| Rehabilitation |

Prevention aspect of child protection includes sensing the perceived dangers and responding to it intelligently so that the potential harm to the child can be avoided even before it has happened. This requires a strong legal structure which is facilitated by equally strong monitoring mechanism with all the processes and protocols in place to identify vulnerable children. This structure also has to be supported by an active civil society which plays its role by generating awareness around the issue and detecting social structures/institutions which might not be explicitly visible to the State.

Intervention aspect of child protection comes into place when the perceived danger has been detected or the child is already placed into a damaging situation from which s/he needs to be rescued. This requires requisite laws policies to be in place which would design a legit process to intervene in these situations and then rescue the child. The laws need to reinforce some form of penance for the person who might be responsible for pushing the child into the self-destructive situation.

Rehabilitation aspect of child protection needs to be set in place by setting up for mechanisms or structures which would be relied on once the child has been rescued from the danger. The children would then be placed in institutions which need to be specifically designed to ensure that the child thoroughly recovers from the trauma of the self-destructive event as well as is placed into an environment which does not pushes it towards repeating the actions which might have led to developing the problem in first place.

Explaining the principles of child protection and premises of their formulation

The principles of child protection are:

| Principle of Presumption of Innocence: This principle states that the child is to be presumed to be an innocent of any mala fide or criminal intent up to the age of 18 years. Principle of Dignity and Worth: This principle states that every child is entitled to be treated with equal dignity and rights, even if s/he has been apprehended on attempted |
| criminal offences.  |
| Principle of Participation: This principle states that every child who has been brought under the jurisdiction needs to be heard and should be allowed to participate in all   |
| processes and decisions affecting his interests. Principle of Best Interest: This principle states that all decisions taken by any   |
| stakeholder needs to be evaluated on the primary consideration that they are in the best interest of the child and to help the child to develop full potential.   |
| Principle of Family Responsibility: This principle states that primary responsibility of  |
| care, nurture and protection of the child is of the biological family or adoptive or foster   |
| parents, which means that every attempt needs to be made to unite the child within the  |
| established family structure.   |
| Principle of Safety: This principle states that all measures need to be taken to ensure   |
| that the child is safe and is not subjected to any harm, abuse or maltreatment while in contact with the care & protection system, and thereafter.  |
| Principle of Positive measures: This principle states that every decision by any  |
| stakeholder of the child needs to promote well-being, facilitate development of identity  |
| and provide an inclusive and enabling environment, to reduce the vulnerabilities of   |
| children and the need of intervention.  |
| Principle of Non-stigmatizing Semantics: This principle states that any adversarial or  |
| accusatory words should not to be used in the processes pertaining to a child.  |
| Principle of Non-waiver of Rights: This principle states that any child who might have   |
| been apprehended for any reason can at any cost be a justified for waiver of any of the   |
| right of the child, it is not permissible or valid.   |
| Principle of Equality and Non-discrimination: This principle states that any form of  |
| discrimination against a child on any grounds including sex, caste, ethnicity, place of   |
| birth, disability and equality of access, opportunity and treatment would not be accepted   |
| at any step of the judicial mechanism.  |
| Principle of Privacy and Confidentiality: This principle states that every child has a  |
| right to protection of his privacy and confidentiality, by all means and throughout the   |
| judicial process.  Principle of Institutionalization as a Mangura of Last Report. This principle states   |
| Principle of Institutionalization as a Measure of Last Resort: This principle states that only after making a reasonable inquiry, having found no other means to rehabilitate  |
| the child to a familial structure should institutionalisation of the child might be consider  |
| as an option suitable.  |
| Principle of Repatriation and Restoration: This principle states that every child has  |
| the right to be re-united with his family and to be restored to the same socio-economic   |
| and cultural status unless it is not in his interest. This means that any child who might   |
| have been separated by his/her original or native family needs for varied reasons would   |
| be attempted to repatriate with them again.   |
| Principle of Fresh Start: This principle states that even if a child was apprehended for a   |
| criminal offence, s/he has right to look forward to his/her life ahead with a clean   |
| background so the past records would be erased except in special circumstances.   |

|   | Principle of Diversion: This principle states that the child would be diverted from his/her existing as a measure for dealing with children in conflict with law. The reason for doing so is that it is assumed that the child was not responsible for committing the offence but it was a resultant of the circumstances which compelled him/her to take such a step so changing that cause would help the child to break free from those repetitive patterns. Principle of Natural Justice: This principle states that the basic procedural standards of fairness to would be adhered to, including the right to a fair hearing, rule against bias and the right to review. |
|---|---|
|   | Premise of these principles are the Articles of UNCRC which state that State needs to direct polices which ensure heath, education, nutrition, minimum standard of living and overall welfare of children residing in the State. These bind the State to roll out laws which ensure that all the said principles of child protection are foundation for any children welfare schemes.   |
| S | Skills required to ensure the effective implementation of these principles  |
|   | Effective judicial structure to capture any vulnerable child who might be falling out of the security net   |
|   |   |
|   | Active participation of community as a unit for well-being of children belonging to that particular cohort  |
|   | Well aware parents to understand and identify any possible threat to their child  |
|   | Coordination between different institutions like school, day care services etc. to capture the child who might have been missed by one can be supported at another level  |
|   | Stringent monitoring mechanism for all the stakeholders and institutions working in the   |
|   | judicial as well as voluntary structure to avoid any form of misconductEmpathy towards the child in crisis while not sympathising to the extent of making thechild feel bad or uncomfortable about itself   |

Technical Session II Situational analysis of children an Overview

Objectives

- To develop an insight of the situation of children with special emphasis on Child Protection in Indian Perspective.
- To make the participants understand about the current Child Protection issues.
- Enable the participants to strategize their work keeping in mind the situation of children they would be addressing to.

Methodology:

Presentation, discussion and group exercise

Material Required:

Projector, computer, slides on 'situational analysis of children in India', flip chart, white board & marker

Duration:

1 hour 30 minutes

Instructions:

Divide the session into three parts.

Part I- Situational Analysis of Children in India

- 1. Show the slides on 'Situation of Children in India (give 20 minutes to presentation).
- 2. Ask participants to share the situation of children in their area/region/state.
- 3. (10 minutes for sharing information).
- 4. Quickly write the responses of the participants on flip chart.
- 5. Quickly analyse the responses and presentation with discussion and proceed to part II.

Part II- Children living in areas affected by Violence

- 1. Divide the participants in three groups .Each group is given one of the following topics to discuss and share:
- 2. What is the violence affected States/districts in India and types of violence.
- 3. Direct impact of violence on Children
- 4. Indirect impact of violence on children (Children of the neighbouring districts or states).
- 5. Quickly write their responses on the flip chart and lead the discussion with the help of reference material.

6. Now proceed to part III.

Part III: Vulnerable Children

- 1. Ask the participants about the categories of Vulnerable Children
- 2. Clarify the categories of Vulnerable Children with the help of slides.
- 3. Then discuss the issues related to these vulnerable children with participants.
- 4. Use power point presentation to lead the discussion.

Keep a track of time and wind up the session.

Tips for the facilitators/Resource Persons:

- This session is important to make the participants understand the situation of children in India and also the types and causes of their vulnerability.
- The group exercise for this session will help the participants to know the condition of children in various parts of India. Further this will also help in seeking their participation.
- Read the slides carefully before conducting the session.
- Have updated data on situation of children in India.
- Keep a track of the time as it is an extensive session.

CONTENTS:

Profile of Children

- •Population of children
- •Child sex-ratio and female foeticide

Health and Nutrition

- Immunization
- Under Weight/ Malnourished
- HIV/AIDS

Technical Session III: Child Development: Concept, stages Social Issue related problems Development and Welfare.

Learning Objectives:

- To enable understanding of meaning and concept & stages child development, along with aspect & principles
- to encourage participants in becoming a skilled and responsible care provider by making them understand all the developmental need of children
- to aware the participants about the social concerns/problems children face by being placed in child care institutions

Methodology: Presentation, Group Discussion, Role play

Material Required: Projector, computer, slides on relevant topics in language best understood by the participants

Duration: 1:30 hours

Intructions:

- 1. Introduce the participants about the basic domains of child development through the powerpoint presentation/slideshow
- 2. continue the session by group discussion method on the topic

Tips for the Facilitators/Resource Persons:

Reference Material for Session

- Meaning of Child Development
- Principle of Child Development
- Aspect of Child Development
- Need of understanding Child Development

Introduction

The Census of India considers children to be any person below the age of 14, as do most government programmes. Biologically childhood is the stage between infancy and adulthood. According to the UNCRC 'a child means every human being below the age of eighteen years unless, under the law applicable to the child, majority is attained earlier'. This definition of child allows for individual countries to determine according to the own discretion the age limits of a child in their own laws. But in India various laws related to children define children in different age limits.

The Indian Penal Code (IPC) 1860 finds that no child below the age of seven may be held criminally responsible for an action (Sec 82 IPC). In case of mental disability or inability to understand the consequences of one's actions the criminal responsibility age is raised to twelve years (Sec 83 IPC). A girl must be of at least sixteen years in order to give sexual consent, unless she is married, in which case the prescribed age is no less that fifteen. With regard to protection against kidnapping, abduction and related offenses the given age is sixteen for boys and eighteen for girls.

According to Article 21 (a) of the Indian Constitution all children between the ages of six to fourteen should be provided with free and compulsory education. Article 45 states that the state should provide early childhood care and education to all children below the age of six. Lastly Article 51(k) states the parents/guardians of the children between the ages of six and fourteen should provide them with opportunities for education.

The Child Labour (Prohibition and Regulation) Act, 1986 defines a child as a person who has not completed fourteen years of age. The Factories Act, 1948 and Plantation Labour Act 1951 states that a child is one that has not completed fifteen years of age and an adolescent is one who has completed fifteen years of age but has not completed eighteen years of age. According to the Factories Act adolescents are allowed to work in factories as long as they are deemed medically fit but may not for more than four and half hours a day. The Motor Transport Workers Act 1961, and The Beedi And Cigar Workers (Conditions Of Employment) Act 1966, both define a child as a person who has not completed fourteen years of age. The Merchant Shipping Act 1958 and Apprentices Act 1961 don't define a child, but in provisions of the act state that a child below fourteen is not permitted to work in occupations of the act. The Mines Act, 1952 is the only labour related act that defines adult as person who has completed eighteen years of age (hence a child is a person who has not completed eighteen years of age).

The Prohibition of Child Marriage Act, 2006 states that a male has not reached majority until he is twenty-one years of age and a female has not reached majority until she is eighteen years of age. The Indian Majority Act, 1875 was enacted to create a blanket definition of a minor for such acts as the Guardians and Wards Act of 1890. Under the Indian Majority Act, 1875 a person has not attainted majority until he or she is of eighteen years of age. This definition of a minor also stands for both the Hindu Minority and Guardianship Act, 1956 and the Hindu Adoption and Maintenance Act, 1956. Muslim, Christian and Zoroastrian personal law also upholds eighteen as the age of majority. The first Juvenile Justice Act, 1986 defined a boy child as below sixteen years of age and a girl child as below eighteen years of age. The Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000 has changed the definition of child to any person who has not completed eighteen years of age.

Because of its umbrella clauses and because it is the latest law to be enacted regarding child rights and protection, many are of the opinion that the definition of child found in the Juvenile Justice Act, 2000 should be considered the legal definition for a child in all matters.

Child development is a multidisciplinary field that relies on knowledge from several other fields, such as psychology, sociology, human development, and the medical field. The study of child development is important to improve outcomes for children and, in turn, society as a whole. The following information serves as an introduction to the field, including how it is defined, its purpose for society, and how it generates knowledge and useful tools.

What is child development?

Child development may be defined as the various changes that occur for humans -- physical, cognitive, social, and emotional and psychological between birth and adulthood. Child development may also examine changes that occur prenatally (before birth). The changes that happen before birth and in the early years of life impact us all and shape who we become as adults. Early child development often focuses on the first five years of life.

The study of child development is often broken down into major domains of development. These include physical, cognitive and social-emotional development. In addition, language/literacy development and identity development are often studied within child development<sup>1, 2</sup>. The chart below summarizes each of these domains.

Child development entails the biological, psychological and emotional changes that occur in human beings between birth and the end of adolescence, as the individual progresses from dependency to increasing autonomy. It is a continuous process with a predictable sequence, yet having a unique course for every child. It does not progress at the same rate and each stage is affected by the preceding developmental experiences. Because these developmental changes may be strongly influenced by genetic factors and events during prenatal life, genetics and prenatal development are usually included as part of the study of child development. Related terms include developmental psychology, referring to development throughout the lifespan, and pediatrics, the branch of medicine relating to the care of children. Developmental change may occur as a result of genetically-controlled processes known as maturation, or as a result of environmental factors and learning, but most commonly involves an interaction between the two. It may also occur as a result of human nature and our ability to learn from our environment.

There are various definitions of periods in a child's development, since each period is a continuum with individual differences regarding start and ending. Some age-related development periods and examples of defined intervals are: newborn (ages 0–4 weeks); infant (ages 4 weeks – 1 year); toddler (ages 1–3 years); preschooler (ages 4–6 years); school-aged child (ages 6–11 years); adolescent (ages 12–19).

Principles of Child Development

- 1. All areas of development and learning are important.
- 2. Learning and development follow sequences.
- 3. Development and learning proceed at varying rates.
- 4. Development and learning result from an interaction of maturation and experience.
- 5. Early experiences have profound effects on development and learning.
- 6. Development proceeds toward greater complexity, self-regulation, and symbolic or representational capacities.
- 7. Children develop best when they have secure relationships.
- 8. Development and learning occur in and are influenced by multiple social and cultural contexts.
- 9. Children learn in a variety of ways.
- 10. Play is an important vehicle for developing self-regulation and promoting language, cognition, and social competence.
- 11. Development and learning advance when children are challenged.

Children's experiences shape their motivation and approaches to learning

Stages of child development

Psychologists have conveniently divided the life span of the individual into groupings which have some common development or practical characteristics. Individual differences are so great that grouping sometimes becomes difficult. Legally life begins at birth; biologically it begins at conception .that is why birth is merely an interruption of the developmental pattern. This interruption is characterized by a graduation from the internal to the external environment.

Childhood is divided into four major stages beginning from conception to when the child becomes sexually mature. These are:

- i. Prenatal Conception to birth
- ii. Infancy birth to 2 years

- iii. Childhood 2–12 years
- iv. Adolescence 12–18 years

Aspects of child development:

Child Development is holistic in nature i.e. a child develops as a whole. All round development of a child comprises three major aspects or areas or domains.

These are:

- 1. Physical and Motor Development
- 2. Cognitive and Language Development
- 3. Psychosocial Development

Development in each of the three aspects does not occur independently, in fact it is interdependent. The effect of development in each area cannot be separated out easily as each affects the development of the other. Experiences and achievements of a child in the three areas of development contribute towards developing a child's personality.

(1) Physical and Motor Development:

Physical Development – Changes in body's size, structure, proportion and system

Motor Development – Development of control of muscular functions and coordination between various parts of the body

(2) Psychosocial Development

Development of emotions and social bonds

Social Development – Ability to relate to others and behave in accordance with the expectations of the society

Emotional Development – Ability to feel, regulate and

(3) Cognitive & Language Development

Cognitive Development – Ability to think, perceive and solve problems including intellectual development i.e. development of language and thinking skills

Language Development – Ability to communicate and speak

The process of child development is affected by heredity and environment due to Which a child matures and learning takes place.

The Central Government, the State Governments, the Board, and other agencies, as the case may be, while implementing the provisions of this Act shall be guided by the following fundamental principles, namely:—

- 1. Principle of presumption of innocence: Any child shall be presumed to be an innocent of any mala fide or criminal intent up to the age of eighteen years.
- 2. Principle of dignity and worth: All human beings shall be treated with equal dignity and rights.
- 3. Principle of participation: Every child shall have a right to be heard and to participate in all processes and decisions affecting his interest and the child's views shall be taken into consideration with due regard to the age and maturity of the child.
- 4. Principle of best interest: All decisions regarding the child shall be based on the primary consideration that they are in the best interest of the child and to help the child to develop full potential.
- 5. Principle of family responsibility: The primary responsibility of care, nurture and protection of the child shall be that of the biological family or adoptive or foster parents, as the case may be.
- 6. Principle of safety: All measures shall be taken to ensure that the child is safe and is not subjected to any harm, abuse or maltreatment while in contact with the care and protection system, and thereafter.
- 7. Positive measures: All resources are to be mobilised including those of family and community, for promoting the well-being, facilitating development of identity and providing an inclusive and

- enabling environment, to reduce vulnerabilities of children and the need for intervention under this Act.
- 8. Principle of non-stigmatising semantics: Adversarial or accusatory words are not to be used in the processes pertaining to a child.
- 9. Principle of non-waiver of rights: No waiver of any of the right of the child is permissible or valid, whether sought by the child or person acting on behalf of the child, or a Board or a Committee and any non-exercise of a fundamental right shall not amount to waiver.
- 10. Principle of equality and non-discrimination: There shall be no discrimination against a child on any grounds including sex, caste, ethnicity, place of birth, disability and equality of access, opportunity and treatment shall be provided to every child.
- 11. Principle of right to privacy and confidentiality: Every child shall have a right to protection of his privacy and confidentiality, by all means and throughout the judicial process.
- 12. Principle of institutionalisation as a measure of last resort: A child shall be placed in institutional care as a step of last resort after making a reasonable inquiry.
- 13. Principle of repatriation and restoration: Every child in the juvenile justice system shall have the right to be re-united with his family at the earliest and to be restored to the same socioeconomic and cultural status that he was in, before coming under the purview of this Act, unless such restoration and repatriation is not in his best interest.
- 14. Principle of fresh start: All past records of any child under the Juvenile Justice system should be erased except in special circumstances.
- 15. Principle of diversion: Measures for dealing with children in conflict with law without resorting to judicial proceedings shall be promoted unless it is in the best interest of the child or the society as a whole.
- 16. Principles of natural justice: Basic procedural standards of fairness shall be adhered to, including the right to a fair hearing, rule against bias and the right to review, by all persons or bodies, acting in a judicial capacity under this Act.

B) Comparison between 2000 and 2015 Act

The Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 provides the overreaching framework for juvenile justice in India. This Act repealed the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000 (JJ Act, 2000). The JJ Act, 2000 was a successor to the Juvenile Justice Act, 1986 (JJ Act, 1986). The 2015 Act is enacted in consonance with international instruments to rectify the anomalies that plagued its predecessor. This chapter explores the history of juvenile justice in India.

The Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 and Child Protection

The Government of India has repealed recently a legislation for children namely, the Juvenile Justice (Care & Protection of Children) Act, to consolidate and amend the law relating to children alleged and found to be in conflict with law and children in need of care and protection by catering to their basic needs through proper care, protection, development, treatment, social re-integration, by adopting a child-friendly approach in the adjudication and disposal of matters in the best interest of children and for their rehabilitation. The JJ Act, 2015 provides for strengthened provisions for both children in need of care and protection and children in conflict with law. Some of the key provisions include: change in nomenclature from 'juvenile' to 'child' or 'child in conflict with law', across the Act to remove the negative connotation associated with the word "juvenile"; inclusion of several new definitions such as orphaned, abandoned and surrendered children; and petty, serious and heinous offences committed by children; clarity in powers, function and responsibilities of Juvenile Justice Board (JJB) and Child Welfare Committee (CWC); clear timelines for inquiry by Juvenile Justice Board (JJB); special provisions for heinous offences committed by children above the age of sixteen; separate new chapter on Adoption to streamline adoption of orphan, abandoned and surrendered children; inclusion of new offences committed against children; and mandatory registration of Child Care Institutions.

Under Section 15, special provisions have been made to tackle child offenders committing heinous offences in the age group of 16-18 years. The Juvenile Justice Board is given the option to transfer cases of heinous offences by such children to a Children's Court (Court of Session) after conducting preliminary assessment. The provisions provide for placing children in a 'place of safety' both during and after the trial till they attain the age of 21 years after which an evaluation of the child shall be conducted by the Children's Court. After the evaluation, the child is either released on probation and if the child is not reformed then the child will be sent to a jail for the remaining term. The law will act as a deterrent for child offenders committing heinous offences such as rape and murder and will protect the rights of victim.

To streamline adoption procedures for orphan, abandoned and surrendered children, the existing Central Adoption Resource Authority (CARA) has been given the status of a statutory body to enable it to perform its function more effectively. Separate Chapter (VIII) on Adoption provides for detailed provisions relating to adoption and punishments for not complying with the laid down procedures. Processes have been streamlined with timelines for both in-country and inter-country adoption including declaring a child legally-free for adoption.

Several rehabilitation and social reintegration measures have been provided for children in conflict with law and those in need of care and protection. Under the institutional care, children are provided with various services including education, health, nutrition, de-addiction, treatment of diseases, vocational training, skill development, life skill education, counselling, etc., to help them assume a constructive role in the society. The variety of non-institutional options include: sponsorship and foster care including group foster care for placing children in a family environment which is other than child's biological family, which is to be selected, qualified, approved and supervised for providing care to children.

Several new offences committed against children, who are so far not adequately covered under any other law, are included in the Act. These include: sale and procurement of children for any purpose including illegal adoption, corporal punishment in child care institutions, use of children by militant groups, offences against disabled children and, kidnapping and abduction of children.

All child care institutions, whether run by State Government or by voluntary or non-governmental organizations, which are meant, either wholly or partially for housing children, regardless of whether they receive grants from the Government, are to be mandatorily registered under the Act within six months from the date of commencement of the Act. Stringent penalty is provided in the law in case of non-compliance.

- The Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012

Reference Material:

Background

Definition of Child Abuse Child abuse means any form of maltreatment inflicted on a child including physical abuse, sexual abuse and emotional abuse. Physical abuse means use of force and / or inflicting of physical injury upon a child and includes burning, hitting, punching, kicking, beating or otherwise harming a child. Sexual abuse includes penetrative sexual assault, aggravated penetrative sexual assault, sexual assault, aggravated sexual assault, sexual harassment and use of a child for pornographic purposes defined in the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012 (POCSO) amended from time to time. Emotional abuse includes acts or omissions by parents or caretakers that have caused or could cause distress, serious behavioural, cognitive, emotional, or mental trauma to the child.

Indicators of Abuse

Many children attending school/institution are victims of abuse. However, the victims do not share their experiences with adults on many occasions. Considering them, the school management and staff should always be alert in finding out consequences of child abuse in children. It is therefore imperative for them to understand the following check lists given in the form of indicators:

Physical Indicators

- Unexplained genital injury
- Inflammation of the vagina
- Vaginal or penile discharge
- Bedwetting and fecal soiling beyond the usual age
- Anal complaints (e.g. fissures, pain, bleeding)
- Pain on urination
- Urinary tract infection
- Sexually Transmitted Infections
- Pregnancy

Understanding Child sexual abuse

Child Sexual Abuse (CSA) is a broad term used to describe sexual offences against children. To put it simply, Child Sexual Abuse occurs when a person involves the child in sexual activities for his/ her sexual gratification, commercial gain or both. Section-2(1)(d) defines a "child "- as any person below the age of 18 years.

The Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012

The Protection of Children from Sexual Offences (POCSO) Act, 2012 deals with sexual offences against persons below 18 years of age, who are deemed as children. The Act for the first time, defines "penetrative sexual assault", "sexual assault" and "sexual harassment". The offence is considered graver if it is committed by a police officer, public servant, any member of the staff at a remand home, protection or observation home, jail, hospital or educational institution, or by a member of the armed or security forces.

The Act has come into force on the 14th of November, 2012, along with the rules framed thereunder. The Act is a comprehensive law to provide for the protection of children from the offences of sexual assault, sexual harassment and pornography, while safeguarding the interests of the child at every stage of the judicial process by incorporating child-friendly mechanisms for reporting, recording of evidence, investigation and speedy trial of offences through appointment of Special Public Prosecutors and designated Special Courts. The Act incorporates child friendly procedures for reporting, recording, investigation and trial offences. The Act provides for stringent punishments which have been graded as per the gravity of offence.

PURPOSE OF ICPS:

The Integrated Child Protection Scheme is expected to significantly contribute to the realization of Government/State responsibility for creating a system that will efficiently and effectively protect children. It is based on cardinal principles of "protection of child rights" and "best interest of the child".

Integrated Child Protection Scheme (ICPS): An Overview

In order to address the issues relating to child protection adequately and to provide a safe, secure and a protective environment for the children who are in "Conflict with Law, Need of Care and Protection" and in difficult circumstances, the Ministry of Women and Child Development, Government of India has introduced a centrally-sponsored scheme namely 'the Integrated Child Protection Scheme (ICPS) in the year 2009-10. The scheme was revised in the year 2014.

The Integrated Child Protection Scheme (ICPS) has significantly contributed for creating a system that will efficiently and effectively protect children. Based on cardinal principles of "protection of child rights" and "best interest of the child", ICPS is achieving its objectives to contribute to the improvements in the well-being of children in difficult circumstances, as well as to the reduction of vulnerabilities to situations and actions that lead to abuse, neglect, exploitation, abandonment and separation of children from their families.

The scheme provides financial assistance for creation of new institutional facilities and maintenance of existing institutional facilities for both children in conflict with law and children in need of care and protection. These include Children's Homes, Observation Homes, Special Homes, Place of Safety, Open Shelters, etc. In addition, the scheme provides for institutional care of children with special needs by supporting a specialized unit within existing homes or by setting up a specialized Shelter Home for children with special needs.

The scheme emphasizes on promotion of family-based care including sponsorship, kinship care, foster care, and adoption. As per the provision of the scheme, various adoption agencies, i.e., State Adoption Resource Agency (SARA), Specialized Adoption Agency (SAA), etc., have been set up at state-and district-level to deal with the issue of adoption. Similarly, to deal with the issue of sponsorship and foster care, the State has constituted District Sponsorship and Foster Care Approval Committee (SFCAC) under the scheme and provides funds also (Sponsorship and Foster Care Fund) which is available with the DCPU. The Ministry of Women and Child Development, Government of India under the Scheme (ICPS) has provided financial support to 34 State Adoption Resource Agencies and 317 Specialized Adoption Agencies (SAAs) across the country. MWCD has notified the Guidelines on Adoption, Sponsorship, Aftercare and Foster Care (Draft guidelines) for children. The States/UTs have set up child protection units at the State and District-level under ICPS and provide child protection services in coordination with the civil society and in convergence with other departments like education, labour, health, etc. The scheme was revised in April 2014.

OBJECTIVES OF ICPS:

The objectives of ICPS are to contribute to the improvements in the wellbeing of children in difficult circumstances, as well as to the reduction of vulnerabilities to situations and actions that lead to abuse, neglect, exploitation, abandonment and separation of children. These will be achieved by:

Improved access to and quality of child protection services.

- Raised public awareness about the reality of child rights, situation and protection in India.
- Clearly articulated responsibilities and enforced accountability for child protection
- Established and functioning structures at all Government levels for delivery of statutory and support services to children in difficult circumstances

Introduced and operational evidence based monitoring and evaluation.

- i. Provide a safe and secure environment for overall development of the children in need of care and protection and children in conflict with law.
- ii. Contribute to the improvement in the well-being of children in difficult circumstances.
- iii. Reduce vulnerabilities to situations and actions that lead to abuse, neglect, exploitation, abandonment and separation.

Guiding Principles:

- a) Child protection, a primary responsibility of family, supported by community, government and civil society.
- b) Loving and caring family, the best place for the child.
- c) Privacy and Confidentiality.
- d) Non-stigmatization and Non-discrimination
- e) Prevention and reduction of vulnerability, central to child protection outcomes.
- f) Institutionalization of children, the last resort.
- g) Child centred planning and implementation
- h) Technical excellence, code of conduct
- i) Flexible programming, responding to local individualized needs
- j) Good governance, accountability and responsibility

Target Groups

- 1) Children in need of care and protection (as defined under JJ Act)
- 2) Child in conflict with law (alleged to have committed an offence)
- 3) Child in contact with law (victim, witness or any other circumstance)
- 4) Any other vulnerable Child (including but not limited to) e.g.
  - a. Children of migrant families
  - b. Children living on the streets

Visit by parents to CCI and Communication with children

Every child in the child care institution may be permitted to have one meeting with his/her relatives provided that in special cases, where parents and guardians have travelled a long distance from another state or district, the person in charge may allow the parent and guardians entry into the premises and a meeting with their children on other days on confirmation of their identity and they being reported not to have being involved ibn subjecting the child to abuse and exploitation. No meeting shall be permitted with the parent or guardian or relative where such visitor have been found to be involved in subjecting the child to violence, abuse and exploitation or carry any prohibited article. Also every child shall be allowed to write two letters in a week to his parents or guardian or to his relatives. A child may speak to his parents on telephone once a week under supervision of the Child Welfare Officer or Case Worker or Probation Officer and record shall be duly maintained of such calls. Every person desiring to meet the child shall, before the meeting, disclose his name and address with proof, which shall be noted in the visitor's register and signed by the visitor. Copy of photo, identity card containing the address and the photograph of the visitor to be taken before the meeting, shall be retain by the institution.

Things to be kept in mind for communicating with children

- i. All children should be approached with extreme sensitivity and their vulnerability recognized and understood.
- ii. Try to establish a neutral environment and rapport with the child before beginning the Communication. For example, if the Communication must be conducted in the child's home, select a private location that appears to be the most neutral spot.
- iii. Always identify yourself as a helping person and try to build a rapport with the child. Make the child comfortable with the Communication setting.. Ask the child if he/she knows why they - have come to see you. Children are often confused about the purpose of the Communication or worried that they are in trouble.

- iv. Convey and maintain a relaxed, friendly atmosphere. Do not express surprise, disgust, disbelief, or other emotional reactions to descriptions of the abuse. Avoid touching the child and respect the child's personal space. Do not stare at the child or sit uncomfortably close. Do not suggest feelings or responses to the child. For example, do not say, "I know how difficult this must be for you
- v. Do not make false promises. For example, do not say, "Everything will be okay" or "You will never have to talk about this again."
- vi. Ask the child to describe what happened, or is happening, to them in their own words. The Communicator should, as far as possible, follow the child's lead; however, he may have to delicately introduce the topics of the abuse. Always begin with open-ended questions. Avoid asking the child a direct question, such as "Did somebody touch your privates last week?". Instead, try "I understand something has been bothering you. Tell me about it.".
- vii. The child may get exhausted frequently and easily; in such an event, it is advisable not to prolong the inquiry, but rather to divert the child's mind and come back to the sexual abuse when the child is refreshed. Regularly check if the child is hungry or thirsty, tired or sleepy, and address these needs immediately. Let the child do the talking and answer any questions the child may have in a direct manner.
- viii. A variety of non-verbal tools may be used to assist young children in communication, including drawings, toys, dollhouses, dolls, puppets, etc. Since such materials have the potential to be distracting or misleading they should be used with care. They are discretionary for older children.
- ix. Storybooks, colouring books or videos that contain explicit descriptions of abuse situations are potentially suggestive and are primary teaching tools. They are typically not appropriate for information-gathering purposes.

In certain situations, the Communicator may consider it appropriate to Communication the child victim together with his/her parent or guardian or other person in whom the child has trust and confidence. In such cases, the following guidance may be useful.

Institutions should have clear guidelines on numbers of staff needed on duty, according to number of children in the institution, which are adhered to. Duty records of all staff especially house mothers should be maintained. There should be a security compound around the institution and day and night security guards should be employed, especially for the girls and children wings. Adequate firefighting arrangements should be done and staff all children should be trained to use the equipment. Emergency phone numbers should be displayed at a prominent place in the building. Building inspection should be done every year by the District inspection Committee . Punishment like deprivation of sleep, meals, physical torture, solitary confinement, verbal abuse should not be resorted to. "Only visitors authorizes by the parents/legal guardian should be allowed to visit the children. The identification of these visitors should be checked prior to meeting the child

Technical Session XIII: Ensuring essential diet/nutrition of Children in Child Care Instututions

Objectives:

- to describe the nutritional status of orphaned and separated children and adolescents assure adequate nutrition, safe water
- staffing the management and delivery of required services for children's survival, life-security, health and nutrition status,
- improve access to essential micronutrients through fortification, supplementation and dietary diversity measures;

Methodology:

Simulation exercise, Presentation, Discussion

Material Required:

Projector, computer, slides on Standards of Care for Child Care Institutions

Duration: 1:30 hours

Instructions:

- aware the participants about why nutritious food is the basic required of the children placed in the child care institution
- how to ensure filling up the gap of mal-nutrition to a fully developed strong future of the country by providing care of the children placed in the Child Care Institution
- Explain them in detail what they are supposed to do in their respective places to achieve the objectives of the scheme run by the ministry of women and child development for the children.
- Precede the discussion with the help of slides.

Tips for the Resource Persons:

- Appreciate and acknowledge the participant's knowledge as and when required.
- Wind up the session by answering the relevant queries.

Reference Material for Technical Session

CONTENTS

- Nutrition and Diet Scale as per given under JJ Act 2015
- Scheme run by the Ministry of Women and Child Development for children nutrition and health care under ICDS

Reference Materials:

Questions to be asked from participants:

- 1. What is the nutritional status of children in your child care institute or community/state
- 2. Are there any case of sever malnourishment among the children placed in CCIs?
- 3. What do you under stand by balanced diet?
- 4. Is it necessary to have a good nutritional status for maintaining good health?
- 5. What are the common practices followed in their community/state with respect child feeding?
- 6. What steps must be taken to improve the nutritional status of the children placed in CCIs?

Children raised in institutions often suffer from dramatic developmental delays and may follow deviant developmental pathways. However, the various causes of these delays are difficult to disentangle. First, in some instances it is difficult to know whether the institutional experience actually causes the deficits or simply maintains pre-existing deficits. Second, the forms of deprivation experienced by institutionalized children rarely occur in isolation from one another. Here we briefly present the (often severe) developmental deficiencies that most institution-reared children display. We selected to concentrate on the important areas of physical, hormonal, cognitive, and emotional development for which replicated evidence exists; this does not constitute a complete picture.

Nutrition and Diet Scale.-(1) The following nutrition and diet scale shall be followed by the Child Care Institutions, namely:

- (i) the children shall be provided four meals in a day including breakfast;
- (ii) the menu shall be prepared with the help of a nutritional expert or doctor to ensure balanced diet and variety in taste as per the minimum nutritional standard and diet scale;

Micronutrient Deficiencies

Micronutrients are essential for good health and their deficiencies can cause serious health problems. Micronutrients include minerals and vitamins as vitamin A, Iron ,Iodine And Zinc.

Common Micronutrients Deficiencies which are prevalent in India are:

- 1. Vitamin A Deficiency: vitamin A (VA) is an essential nutrient need for the normal functioning of the visual system, growth and development ,maintenance of epithelial cellular integrity, immune system function and reproduction.
- 2. Iodine Deficiency Disorder: Iodine is an essential micronutrient and is a leading cause of preventable mental retardation .its deficiency can result I poor physical and mental development of children particularly if the mother suffers from this condition in pregnancy .it is required at 100-150µ daily for normal human growth and development.
- 3. Iron Deficiency Anemia: iron is necessary for synthesis of hemoglobin. Iron deficiency is thought to be the most common cause of anemia globally but other nutrional deficiencies (including folate, vitamin B12 and vitamin A ) acute and cronic inflammation , parasitic and inherited or acquired disorders that affect Hb synthesis , red blood cell production or red blood cell survival can all cause anemia.
- 4. The effect are most severe in infancy and early childhood .iron deficiency adversely affect:
  - The cognitive performance ,behaviour and physical growth of infants, preschool and school-age children.
  - The immune status and morbidity from infections of all age group.
  - In pregnancy iron deficiency anemia can lead to prenatal loss ,ore mature and low birth weight babies

Maintain discipline among children(Management of unruly children and common behavioural problems)

Unruly children

Difficult children aren't difficult because they're bad children or because there's something wrong with them. Difficult children are difficult because they can't regulate themselves well. Their mood gets easily thrown and they have great difficulty recovering and bouncing back. It's crucial that caregivers of such children know how to navigate the difficult child so that he thrives emotionally as much as possible, and that you have the best possible relationship with him so that he feels connected, accepted, and loved.

When children are unruly it can be difficult for the caregiver and it's an indication that the child is upset, fearful or confused. Handling an unruly child takes some skill and strategizing, but you can work together with the child so that he can learn better self-control and you can both feel more calm more often. Remember that it is the child's behaviour that is the problem – not the child. Be sure that unruly children feel aware that you love them and that you see them in a positive light despite their disruptive behaviour. You should never hit or spank a child.

Yoga and Meditation

Yoga

Originated in ancient India, Yoga typically means 'union' between the mind, body and spirit. It involves the practice of physical postures and poses, which is sometimes referred to as 'asana' in Sanskrit. As the name suggests, the ultimate aim of practicing Yoga is to create a balance between the body and the mind and to attain self-enlightenment. In order to accomplish it, Yoga makes use of different movements, breathing exercises, relaxation technique and meditation. Yoga is associated with a healthy and lively lifestyle with a balanced approach to life.

How does Yoga help?

Yoga is the perfect way to ensure overall health and physical fitness. Through meditation, breathing exercises (called pranayams); you can banish all your stress and lead a healthy life. In fact, it is one of the best remedies known to humankind, for curing chronic ailments that are otherwise difficult to be cured by other medications. One is truly healthy when they are physically, mentally and emotionally balanced, and yoga helps us to reach that state. Yoga has proved to be an effective technique in:

Relieving Depression

Depression is a mental illness that causes a constant feeling of sadness and lack of interest. It affects one's thinking, behaviour and feelings too.

Meditation

A person well versed in inner science traditions has access to a veritable apothecary of meditative antidotes to disturbing mind states, as well as to potent methods for enhancing and developing wholesome and helpful states of mind. Mastering our mind in these ways, we will inevitably develop mastery over our physical and verbal expressions and our relationship

Creating Order Out of Chaotic Behaviour

First priority should be to create rules around the behaviours that are causing the most disruption or have potential risk for harm.

If you are the main caregiver for the child, you can develop the rules on your own. If your child spends a great deal of time with another caregiver (another parent, grandparent, or paid caregiver), then work with that person on the rules.

Make sure that the rules you develop are clear and simple. For example, for a child who has trouble with physical aggression, the rule could simply be worded "no hitting."

Be a Happy, Spiritual Family

Give your child alternatives to bad behaviour. Children need help replacing an undesirable behaviour with something new that will help them learn to control themselves. Depending on what behaviours you are working on, you can try one or more different alternatives.

Stop, think and choose. Stop the current activity, reflect on what you are thinking, and then consider consequences for yourself and others before you choose your next action.

Personal time-out. Leave the room and take a few minutes to calm down before you return to the situation.

Talk about how you feel. Tell a person you trust about how you are feeling by naming the feelings you are having and how the feelings are affecting you.

Visit by parents to CCI and Communication with children

Every child in the child care institution may be permitted to have one meeting with his/her relatives provided that in special cases, where parents and guardians have travelled a long distance from another state or district, the person in charge may allow the parent and guardians entry into the premises and a meeting with their children on other days on confirmation of their identity and they being reported not to have being involved ibn subjecting the child to abuse and exploitation. No meeting shall be permitted with the parent or guardian or relative where such visitor have been found to be involved in subjecting the child to violence, abuse and exploitation or carry any prohibited article. Also every child shall be allowed to write two letters in a week to his parents or guardian or to his relatives. A child may speak to his parents on telephone once a week under supervision of the Child Welfare Officer or Case Worker or Probation Officer and record shall be duly maintained of such calls. Every person desiring to meet the child shall, before the meeting, disclose his name and address with proof, which shall be noted in the visitor's register and signed by the visitor. Copy of photo, identity card containing the address and the photograph of the visitor to be taken before the meeting, shall be retain by the institution.

Things to be kept in mind for communicating with children

- x. All children should be approached with extreme sensitivity and their vulnerability recognized and understood.
- xi. Try to establish a neutral environment and rapport with the child before beginning the Communication. For example, if the Communication must be conducted in the child's home, select a private location that appears to be the most neutral spot.
- xii. Always identify yourself as a helping person and try to build a rapport with the child. Make the child comfortable with the Communication setting. Ask the child if he/she knows why they have come to see you. Children are often confused about the purpose of the Communication or worried that they are in trouble.
- xiii. Convey and maintain a relaxed, friendly atmosphere. Do not express surprise, disgust, disbelief, or other emotional reactions to descriptions of the abuse. Avoid touching the child and respect the child's personal space. Do not stare at the child or sit uncomfortably close. Do not suggest feelings or responses to the child. For example, do not say, "I know how difficult this must be for you
- xiv. Do not make false promises. For example, do not say, "Everything will be okay" or "You will never have to talk about this again."
- xv. Ask the child to describe what happened, or is happening, to them in their own words. The Communicator should, as far as possible, follow the child's lead; however, he may have to delicately introduce the topics of the abuse. Always begin with open-ended questions. Avoid asking the child a direct question, such as "Did somebody touch your privates last week?". Instead, try "I understand something has been bothering you. Tell me about it.".
- xvi. The child may get exhausted frequently and easily; in such an event, it is advisable not to prolong the inquiry, but rather to divert the child's mind and come back to the sexual abuse when the child is refreshed. Regularly check if the child is hungry or thirsty, tired or sleepy, and address these needs immediately. Let the child do the talking and answer any questions the child may have in a direct manner.

- xvii. A variety of non-verbal tools may be used to assist young children in communication, including drawings, toys, dollhouses, dolls, puppets, etc. Since such materials have the potential to be distracting or misleading they should be used with care. They are discretionary for older children.
- xviii. Storybooks, colouring books or videos that contain explicit descriptions of abuse situations are potentially suggestive and are primary teaching tools. They are typically not appropriate for information-gathering purposes.

In certain situations, the Communicator may consider it appropriate to Communication the child victim together with his/her parent or guardian or other person in whom the child has trust and confidence. In such cases, the following guidance may be useful.

Institutions should have clear guidelines on numbers of staff needed on duty, according to number of children in the institution, which are adhered to. Duty records of all staff especially house mothers should be maintained. There should be a security compound around the institution and day and night security guards should be employed, especially for the girls and children wings. Adequate firefighting arrangements should be done and staff all children should be trained to use the equipment. Emergency phone numbers should be displayed at a prominent place in the building. Building inspection should be done every year by the District inspection Committee . Punishment like deprivation of sleep, meals, physical torture, solitary confinement, verbal abuse should not be resorted to. "Only visitors authorizes by the parents/legal guardian should be allowed to visit the children. The identification of these visitors should be checked prior to meeting the child

Security measures

- In case of institutions housing infants, provision for ayahs and paramedical staff shall be made as per need.
- The security personnel shall be deployed as per nature and requirement of the Child Care Institution, taking into consideration strength of the children, age groups, physical and mental status, segregation facility based on the nature of offence and structure of the Institution.
- The security personnel to be engaged or appointed shall be adequately trained and oriented to deal with the children with sensitivity preferably ex-servicemen or retired para-military personnel or through Director General of Resettlement.
- The security personnel shall not be with arms or guns but have training and special skills to handle a crisis situation, control violence and escape of children from the institution, conduct search and frisking and security surveillance.
- Adequate number of security personnel shall be engaged in every Child Care Institution keeping in mind the category of children housed in the Child Care Institution, age group of children and the purpose of the Child Care Institution and the risk factor to and from the child.
- While engaging security personnel, preference shall be given to ex-servicemen recruited through the Directorate General of Resettlement or agencies recommended by them.
- In Child Care Institutions housing girls, female security guards would be provided for the security inside the Child Care Institution and male security guards may be engaged for the security of the Child Care Institution from outside.
- Security personnel should also be available in reserve for any emergency situation.
- The Person-in-charge shall ensure that appropriate security measures are employed at all times, including the following:
- There shall be sufficient number of guards at all times in different shifts to be posted at the points to be identified by the Person-in-charge in consultation with security in-charge and the Department.
- Any child, who complains of a medical problem or any other problem at night, shall report to the caregiver concerned. The caregiver shall take such necessary steps as may be required and in case of emergency shall inform the medical officer concerned or the Person-in-charge as the need may be, who shall immediately take appropriate steps.
- A duty roster shall be prepared and displayed at some prominent place in the premises of the Child Care Institution by the Person-in-charge.
- Every caregiver or other staff of the Home, if he comes to know of any incident or probability of unrest amongst the children, shall bring the same to the notice of the Person-in-charge without any loss of time, who shall take necessary steps as the situation demands and shall inform the Board or the Committee of such information or incident as well as the steps taken by him, in writing.
- The Person-in-charge shall make surprise visits to the Child Care Institution during the night as frequently as possible, but not less than once a week. He shall make a record of the timings of his visit and also note his observations in the register maintained by him in that regard.

- In a case of disturbance outside the Child Care Institution, the shift in-charge shall immediately inform the police station concerned.
- In a case of violence or disturbance inside the Child Care Institution, the shift in-charge shall take assistance of the police with the permission of the Person-in-charge. The shift in-charge shall first issue a warning to the children.
- In case of a natural disaster or fire or any such calamity, the shift in-charge shall take suitable steps for evacuation and safety of the children as per the Disaster Management Protocol as developed by the State Disaster Management Authority for Child Care Institutions.
- To prepare the officers, children and guards to follow the above steps, a practice drill shall be held once a month, without previous notice by the Person-in-charge.
- Closed Circuit Television cameras may be installed at all key points such as all entry and exit points to the Child Care Institution, reception, corridors, kitchen, pantry or store room, dormitories, entry and exit points of the washrooms with due regard to the privacy and dignity of the children.
- Adequate number of scanners and metal detectors may be provided in every Child Care Institution.

Searches and Seizures

- (1) The Person-in-charge or other authorised functionary of the Home may conduct searches if required, and seize prohibited articles, if found.
- (2) The procedure in case of seizures shall be as under:
  - any prohibited article found during the search, shall be seized by the Person-in-charge and a list of such seizure prepared
  - in case of arms, weapons, articles capable of being used as weapons or tools for criminal activities or addictive substances being found from a child or dormitory, the Person-incharge shall conduct an inquiry to ascertain the presence of such articles and the persons responsible for such act
  - the Person-in-charge shall furnish his report in this respect to the police and inform the Board or the Committee at the earliest
  - the Board may initiate appropriate action upon such report or on the report forwarded by the Committee for disposal of the seized articles
  - the State Government shall take appropriate action against the person responsible, if such person is an officer of the Child Care Institution or against the agency through whom the said person has been engaged or the Child Care Institution
  - The child responsible shall be dealt with in accordance with the Act and the rules made thereunder.

All the articles seized shall be destroyed or disposed of having regard to the nature of the articles, on the orders of the competent court, after being satisfied that the seized articles are not required in any inquiry or departmental action against any officer or in any criminal investigation and proceedings.

- In every child care institution adequate number of security personnel shall be engaged keeping in mind the category of children housed in the child care institution, age group of children and the risk factor to and from the child.
- While engaging security personnel, preference shall be given to ex-servicemen recruited through the directorate general of resettlement or agencies recommended by them.
- In child care institution housing girls, female security guards would be provided for the security inside the child care institution and made security guard may be engaged for the security of the child care institution from outside.
- every caregiver or other staff of the home, if he comes to know about any incident or probability of unrest among the children, shall bring the same to the notice of the person-in charge without any loss of time, who shall take necessary steps as the situation demands and shall inform the broad or the committee of such information in the register maintained by him in that regard.
- In a case of disturbance outside the child care institution, the shift in-charge shall immediately inform the police station concerned.

Across the Indian states, there are around 5000 Child Care Institutions both registered and unregistered that are involved in the care and protection of approximately 1,50,000 children and adolescents at any given time. Who as a result of their adverse psychosocial circumstances are residing in these CCI's? A large number of these CCI's have a high turnover and most of these children for obvious reasons require psychosocial intervention. Psychosocial care with a preventive and promotive inclination is of utmost importance for these children who are in need of care and protection. The children and adolescents living in the CCI's, most of whom come from low socioeconomic families with fractured family ties require intensive psychosocial intervention in the absence of any significant family member or presence of reluctantly involved parent or guardian. Children and Adolescents living in CCI's suffer from a spectrum of mental health issues ranging from transient emotional disturbances to more severe psychological/psychiatric problems such as substance use disorders, Conduct disorders and varying grades of sociality in the background of common and severe mental illnesses. Institutionalized children and adolescents have higher rates of moderate to severe forms of psychological /psychiatric disorders making them a vulnerable group. With the changing socio-political scenario in India and across the globe with reforms in laws that govern the care and protection of children and adolescents; it is imperative that as a nation we focus on the needs of these children living in difficult circumstances. Perhaps, the single most important means to achieve this goal would be to focus on capacity and skill building of the counsellors and support staff.

young children placed in institutional care are at risk of harm in terms of attachment disorder and developmental delays in social, behavioral, and cognitive domains. Delays in physical growth, neural atrophy, and abnormal brain development. Children exposed to institutional care often suffer from "structural neglect" which may include minimum physical resources, unfavorable and unstable staffing patterns, and social-emotionally inadequate caregiver-child interactions. After centuries of slilence, misunderstanding and out right abuse, children mental health problems and need now recive greater attention, which corresponds to society's recent concern about childrens well-being, earlier peoplr distiquies children with itellectual defects children with behaviour and emothional problem was derived from religious views of immoral bevaiour: children who had normal cognitive abilities but who were disturebed were thought to suffer from moral insanity, which implied a disturbence in personality or character.

- (1) Institutions characterized by global deprivation of the child's health, nutrition, stimulation, and relationship needs.
- (2) Institutions with adequate health and nutrition support, but deprivation of the child's stimulation and relationship needs.
- (3) Institutions that meet all needs except for stable, long-term relationships with consistent caregivers. Logically it is possible to add a fourth level, namely an institutional environment that provides for stable and consistent caregiving, and only deprives children of a regular family life embedded in a regular social environment.

The recognition of psychological influence emerged early in the twetieth century, when attention was drawn to the impotance of major psychological disorders and to formulation a taxonomy of illness. such recognition allowed people to better understand the basic psychological and emotional need of a child and importance of better care and protection need by the child in the growing age.this also allowed researcher to organize and categorize ways of diffenceiating among various psychological problems, at the same time there was concrn that attempts to recognize the wide range of mentsl health needs of children and adults could easily could easily be back fire and lead to neglect of persons with more severe disoredr.this shift in perspective and increase in knowledge also prompted the development of diagnostic cateories and new criminal offenses, the expansion of descriptions of deviant behaviour and the addition of more comprehensive monitoring procedures for identified individuals.

Issues

Child abuse

New-borns are almost fully dependent upon parents to help them regulate physiology and behaviour. Under optimal conditions, parents buffer young children from stress and serve as "co-regulators" of behaviour and physiology

Children who have experienced abuse and neglect are therefore at increased risk for a number of problematic developmental, health, and mental health outcomes, including learning problems with inattention and deficits in executive functions, problems relating to peers. Peer rejection, internalizing symptoms (depression, anxiety), externalizing symptoms (oppositional defiant disorder, conduct disorder, aggression), and posttraumatic stress disorder (PTSD). As adults, these children continue to show increased risk for psychiatric disorders, substance use, serious medical illnesses, and lower economic productivity.

Neglect

Neglect is the most prevalent form of child maltreatment and has been associated with negative social, behavioral, and cognitive consequences. Children exposed to institutional care do not receive the type of nurturing and stimulating environment needed for normal growth and healthy psychological development. In addition to physical and emotional neglect in a home setting, neglect can take place in institution environments where a lack of consistent caregivers, crowded conditions, and too few employees may lead to an infant or toddler not having their physical, social, and/or emotional needs met. Early childhood is a vulnerable period for the acquisition and development of cognitive, language, and emotion regulation abilities, and therefore neglect in early childhood is of particular concern. Normal development may be disrupted by deprivation associated with neglect and can result in deregulations of neural systems during vulnerable periods of brain development, leading to pronounced neuron cognitive deficits due to maltreatment.

Lack of stimulation

Low-stimulation environments and inconsistent parenting (lack of rules, failure to monitor child, inconsistent punishment and reward), common in both physical neglect environments and orphanage setting, can lead to lower scores on intelligence and language tests. children with a history of neglect scored significantly lower on measures of syntactic ability and receptive vocabulary when age and maternal IQ were controlled it has been found by different previously conducted studies 'progressive cognitive decline in children experiencing substantiated neglect in comparison to non-neglected children'. Children reared in institutional settings fall victim to similar risk factors; there are poor child-caregiver ratios, inadequate cognitive, sensory, and linguistic stimulation, and unresponsive care-giving practices. Therefore, the children may exhibit delays in development of IQ, language, and social emotional functioning as well as impaired attachment.

Aggression & pro social behaviour:

During early childhood, a child develops self-control and a conscience. In order for a child to become a member of their social group, they must learn to get along in this group with their peers.

This learning involves controlling their aggression and showing empathy.

Aggression can be controlled in three ways:

Catharsis can be used to "vent" anger is safe ways .These behaviours often display themselves through children's play activities. Rewarding non-aggressive behaviour also works. An aggressive child is seeking attention and if they are not rewarded with this attention and in fact see the victim being rewarded for not acting aggressively, an example of how to act prosaically is offered and aggression will subside.

Cognitive training can be used to stop aggressive behaviour by simply telling a child that aggression hurts other people and makes them unhappy, that it doesn't solve problems and that sharing and taking turns works better.

Pro social behaviour is expressed by what is termed "empathy." During early childhood, a child's ability to empathize broadens and they become better at understanding the distress of others. These behaviours include sharing, helping, care-giving and showing compassion.

Promoting Pro social Behaviour:

the pro social behaviour that is important for their success in society. There are ways to promote this behaviour. Reward may seem to be the best way to promote prosocial behaviour, however it has been found to not be as effective as people think. Better ways to promote good behaviour is through modelling (behaves the way you wish the child to behave ), and induction where the adult appeals to the child's pride and desire to be grown up, explaining what needs to be done to be a good boy/girl and why the child should act so in order to be more "grown-up."

Social Influences & Middle Childhood:

During middle childhood, friendships and peer relations become very important, as children begin to spend a significant amount of time with their peers. It is important that they find a place within their social group. This requires an increased attention to social rules and an increased ability to consider other people's point of view. Social status becomes important and children must compete for this.

Adolescence (12 - 18 years old) is a particularly hard time for children. They are experiencing all kinds of new changes in their bodies and in their feelings. As well, they often feel misunderstood as they are struggling to leave behind their childhood and become adults.

Adolescence has commonly been characterized by issues such as rebellious behaviour, lying, cheating, school performance problems, negative attitudes, disobedience and disrespect, sibling rivalry, drug and alcohol abuse, pressures from peers, depression, and issues of sexuality.

Puberty:

In their second decade of life, children experience puberty. Puberty is the stage where the child transforms from physical immaturity into becoming capable of reproduction. One of the first visible signs of puberty is a growth spurt-both in the child's size and shape

Strategy for Child Protection:

- 1) Making children aware about Child Sexual Abuse (CSA)
- 2) Preparing children to avoid/handle potentially dangerous situations.
- 3) Encouraging children to report CSA.
- 4) Confidential complaint boxes for children &ATR.
- 5) Complaint book to be maintained & made available to children.
- 6) Proper lighting in CCIs.
- 7) CCTV cameras in most areas of CCI in a lawful manner.
- 8) Regular health/ medical check-up of children for physical and behavioural changes.
- 9) Capacity Building in prevention and handling CSA.
- 10) Checking antecedents of CCI Staff and associates/ regular visitors for business with respect to history of CSA.
- 11) Training Superintendents in identifying victims of CSA
- 12) Regular observation of and interaction with children by Superintendents, doctors, counsellors.
- 13) Regular health/medical check-up of children for tell-tale marks.
- 14) Constitution of children's committee & its regular meetings.
- 15) Prompt reporting of CSA in the premises.
- 16) Special sensitivity towards vulnerable children including:
- a. Very young children
- b. Physically challenged children
- c. Mentally challenged children
- d. Children with a withdrawn personality
- e. Adolescent/ pre-pubertal girls

NOTE: Resource Person can be either a clinical psychologist or a medical professional or faculty of Child Development having wide experience on the subject.

Technical Session XX: Identification of Mental Health needs of Children in CCI's

Objectives

• to discuss with the participants about the identification of the risk factors in children

- to identify and evaluate the gaps in existing mental health care services for children in Child Care Institutions
- to aware the participants about various signs and symptoms of mental health issues in children placed in Child Care Institutions
- to enable the participants about assessment of mental health needs of the children placed in CCIs

Reference Material:

Background

Mental health problems have adverse outcomes for the children (academic impairments, sociooccupational impairments, physical health problems) as well as the society (loss of productivity, increased burden on health services, increased conflicts with law). Hence, early identification of their mental health needs is important to implement effective prevention and management strategies and reduce the impairments and disabilities. The assessment of mental health needs depends upon the type of interventions being offered, i.e., primary, secondary or tertiary prevention. Ideally, all three should be undertaken at tandem in all Child care institutions as all children may be going through a different stage of development of a mental health problem. The following sections provide an overview of the various identification strategies

I. Identification of risk factors

This is done before the symptoms of mental health problems appear. The aim is primary prevention, i.e., preventing the development of illness by modifying the risk factors. The institutionalized children often come from a variety of traumatic backgrounds and counsellors need to be aware of all such possibilities:

- Death of parents or abandonment
- Harsh or punitive parenting or marital disharmony among parents
- Lack of intellectually stimulating environment
- Lack of love, supervision and care
- Lack of schooling or school dropouts
- Child labour or begging
- Unhygienic conditions or unsafe food and water
- Physical or sexual abuse, violence
- Teenage pregnancies
- Homelessness
- Tobacco, alcohol and other drug use in children or their parents
- Poor nutritional status or hunger
- Displacement due to conflicts or natural disasters
- Physical or mental disabilities or developmental delays
- Children in conflict with law

Counsellors at CCIs must enquire about all these risk factors in all the children, preferably as early as possible, so that appropriate interventions could be undertaken. Children may initially be guarded about their traumatic experiences due to stigma, lack of trust, fear of incarceration. Counsellors should try to develop a rapport with each child even if it seems difficult to communicate with him or her. This may be enabled by developing a friendly atmosphere of non-judgmental acceptance. Counsellors should provide secure surroundings and unconditional love, and try to be children's playmates.

II. Identification of signs and symptoms

This is done after the mental illness or problems start appearing. The aim is early identification of the problems and to provide appropriate treatment, i.e., secondary prevention. The counsellors should assess for the following signs and symptoms in all children which may indicate a mental health problem:

The Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act 2015 has come into force on January 15, 2016. It replaces the Juvenile Justice Act, 2000.

Understanding Juvenile Justice - Brief Background and Philosophy

The Government of India has repealed recently a legislation for children namely, the Juvenile Justice (Care & Protection of Children) Act, to consolidate and amend the law relating to children alleged and found to be in conflict with law and children in need of care and protection by catering to their basic needs through proper care, protection, development, treatment, social re-integration, by adopting a child-friendly approach in the adjudication and disposal of matters in the best interest of children and for their rehabilitation. The JJ Act, 2015 provides for strengthened provisions for both children in need of care and protection and children in conflict with law. Some of the key provisions include: change in nomenclature from 'juvenile' to 'child' or 'child in conflict with law', across the Act to remove the negative connotation associated with the word "juvenile"; inclusion of several new definitions such as orphaned, abandoned and surrendered children; and petty, serious and heinous offences committed by children; clarity in powers, function and responsibilities of Juvenile Justice Board (JJB) and Child Welfare Committee (CWC); clear timelines for inquiry by Juvenile Justice Board (JJB); special provisions for heinous offences committed by children above the age of sixteen; separate new chapter on Adoption to streamline adoption of orphan, abandoned and surrendered children; inclusion of new offences committed against children; and mandatory registration of Child Care Institutions.

Under Section 15, special provisions have been made to tackle child offenders committing heinous offences in the age group of 16-18 years. The Juvenile Justice Board is given the option to transfer cases of heinous offences by such children to a Children's Court (Court of Session) after conducting preliminary assessment. The provisions provide for placing children in a 'place of safety' both during and after the trial till they attain the age of 21 years after which an evaluation of the child shall be conducted by the Children's Court. After the evaluation, the child is either released on probation and if the child is not reformed then the child will be sent to a jail for the remaining term. The law will act as a deterrent for child offenders committing heinous offences such as rape and murder and will protect the rights of victim.

Several rehabilitation and social reintegration measures have been provided for children in conflict with law and those in need of care and protection. Under the institutional care, children are provided with various services including education, health, nutrition, de-addiction, treatment of diseases, vocational training, skill development, life skill education, counselling, etc., to help them assume a constructive role in the society. The variety of non-institutional options include: sponsorship and foster care including group foster care for placing children in a family environment which is other than child's biological family, which is to be selected, qualified, approved and supervised for providing care to children. All child care institutions, whether run by State Government or by voluntary or non-governmental organizations, which are meant, either wholly or partially for housing children, regardless of whether they receive grants from the Government, are to be mandatorily registered under the Act within six months from the date of commencement of the Act. Stringent penalty is provided in the law in case of non-compliance.

Several new offences committed against children, who are so far not adequately covered under any other law, are included in the Act. These include: sale and procurement of children for any purpose including illegal adoption, corporal punishment in child care institutions, use of children by militant groups, offences against disabled children and, kidnapping and abduction of children.
